

Galloway Johnson Named 2016 Workers' Compensation Litigation Law Firm of the Year in Mississippi by Corporate INTL Global Awards

Galloway Johnson is pleased to announce that it has been named the 2016 Workers' Compensation Litigation Law Firm of the Year in Mississippi by Corporate INTL Global Awards.

Corporate INTL's research department conducts extensive reviews, draws insight from business leaders throughout the world and takes suggestions over the proceeding 6 months to produce a shortlist of firms for each award category. They spend the last few months leading up to the award announcements working through tens of thousands of nomination forms that they receive back from the following sources:

- The readership of Corporate INTL magazine, which is distributed to over 70,000 individuals each month, all of which are either investors in business, leaders of companies or advisers for those businesses on a global level
- Over 300,000 individual partners of law firms
- Over 250,000 CFOs, CEOs and Directors of public & private businesses around the world
- Over 50,000 in-house counsel of businesses operating publicly and privately, varying in size from private mid-market to leading publicly listed companies around the world

Congratulations to our Mississippi Workers' Compensation team!
