

Galloway Supports the 2019 CLM Claims College – Claims Mediation School

Joe Hassinger, a Director in Galloway's New Orleans office, has been invited to serve on the Executive Council of the Claims Mediation School for the CLM Claims College. "To have the opportunity to work with national leaders in mediation and claims management is certainly a privilege," Joe explains. "Like trial practice, mediation is an art and a science that requires strong fundamentals and ongoing training and skill development," he adds. "Service to our peers and colleagues in a setting like the Claims College gives us the opportunity to not only teach, but to learn as well." As a Council member, Joe will work with assigned faculty as they prepare to teach their courses, participate in all presentations, and serve as a mediator in the Mock Mediation Final. This year's Claims College will take place in Baltimore, MD from September 4 – September 7. In addition to having a robust litigation practice for almost 27 years, Joe also serves as a mediator throughout Louisiana and Mississippi. For more information, you can contact Joe directly at jhassinger@gallowaylawfirm.com.