

Joshua E. Sins, Director

Overview

Joshua Sins' commitment to his clients goes beyond simply handling their cases, by regularly providing them with advice and counsel on the implementation of best practices regarding their specific day-to-day operations. His clients have praised him for his attentiveness and responsiveness, as well as noting the ease he provides in working with opposing counsel.

Joshua works with clients in the construction, retail, trucking spaces and longshore maritime, as well as many others, and focuses his practices in the areas of complex commercial litigation, employment law, insurance coverage and defense, premises liability, workers' compensation and subrogation. He has experience handling matters at the state and federal level, from dispute resolution to trial, and through the appellate process.

When Joshua is not busy advocating for his clients, he can be found in the cockpit of a Cessna 172 Skyhawk, working to obtain his private pilot's license.

Representative Matters

- Successfully represented scaffolding companies by identifying, proving, and leveraging fraudulent activity to settle cases at a fraction of their potential exposure.
- Litigated and obtained favorable settlements in cases involving a well-known collapsed building in New Orleans.
- Obtained remarkable defense verdicts and settlements in numerous first party insured cases involving hurricanes Laura and Delta.
