

Director Joe Hassinger to Participate in Harvard University's Program on Negotiation (PON) Global Program

Director Joe Hassinger will participate in Harvard University's Program on Negotiation (PON) Global program in February. PON Global's intensive format is designed to provide attendees with cutting-edge negotiation skills, teach them to overcome emotional and rational biases, and help them learn a range of cooperative and competitive negotiation strategies. For almost forty years, PON has provided negotiation training worldwide to more than 50,000 global professionals. PON's innovative teaching methods introduce the best theory and practice in the fields of negotiation, conflict resolution, and deal-making.
