ABOUT ANDY

Andy Krone is a Houston-based trial attorney who represents clients across Texas and the Gulf Coast in trucking and transportation, wrongful death, personal injury, premises liability, and general commercial litigation. With a practice rooted in high-exposure and complex claims, Andy is known for delivering accurate, early case assessments and pursuing efficient outcomes in litigation, mediation, and trial.

Andy regularly defends trucking companies, transportation providers, insurers, and businesses in serious personal injury and wrongful death matters, including catastrophic trucking accidents, worksite incidents involving heavy equipment, and premises liability claims. He delivers a disciplined, analytical approach to each case, effectively identifying key liability and exposure issues and developing key strategies that align with his clients' operational and financial goals. Serving clients throughout the Houston area and Gulf Coast transportation corridor, he is well-positioned to handle matters tied to an active logistics and shipping region.

Andy is a member of Galloway's 24/7 Emergency Response Team, providing immediate response to catastrophic trucking and transportation accidents and helping clients assess risk and exposure at the earliest stage of a claim.

Before practicing law, Andy had a successful career in banking and finance, an experience that continues to shape his practice. His background provides a practical understanding of risk, financial exposure, and how litigation impacts a client's bottom line. Clients rely on him to evaluate claims early, control costs, and position cases for favorable resolution without unnecessary escalation.

Resilient and solutions-oriented, Andy approaches challenges with a steady focus and a commitment to providing excellent service to his clients. His foundation in business and finance informs his strong work ethic and long-term perspective when guiding clients through complex disputes.
