ABOUT BRYANA

Bryana J. Arthurton is a civil litigation attorney based in Tampa who focuses on general liability and insurance defense for commercial and transportation clients, including premises liability and personal injury claims. With experience representing both plaintiffs and defendants, she brings a practical understanding of how claims are evaluated, defended, and resolved for businesses and insurers throughout Florida.

Bryana's practice spans all stages of litigation in Florida state courts, from case inception through trial. Her background includes substantial experience in case evaluation, motion practice, discovery, depositions, and settlement negotiations, with an emphasis on early case assessment, risk management, and trial readiness. Bryana also has prior experience as a legal assistant and paralegal, which informs an efficient, detail-oriented approach to document review, legal research, compliance, and client communication.

Raised in a military family, Bryana spent time in California and Oklahoma before settling in Tampa. Outside of her practice, she enjoys staying active outdoors.
