ABOUT CAMPBELL BOWMAN

Campbell “Bowman” Fetzer understands the construction business in Louisiana. Bowman began his career in Baton Rouge, working for his family’s construction company where he managed large-scale commercial renovation projects and various new residential and commercial projects. His experience in the construction sector gives him the insight needed to quickly assess the issues behind any construction-related claim and work with his clients to develop a winning strategy – in the board room or in the courtroom.

Aside from his construction practice, Bowman represents clients in the areas of trucking and transportation, property damage, insurance coverage and defense, as well as litigating claims related to personal injury, premises liability, and products liability. He was also part of the team that helped uncover and expose an elaborate fraud ring in Louisiana related to commercial trucking.

Outside of the courtroom, Bowman enjoys spending most of his free time with his children and in the outdoors hunting and fishing.
