ABOUT KOREY

Korey Lewis builds lasting, strong partnerships with clients, based on respect and responsiveness. She brings an acute attention to detail and a strong emphasis on organization, keeping her prepared for all potential arguments and outcomes. Korey has provided result-driven representation in matters at both the state and federal levels.

Korey concentrates her practice on civil defense, particularly insurance defense of personal injury and property damage cases. She previously served as an Associate City Counselor for the City of St. Louis, gaining valuable experience and specializing in employment cases. Additionally, Korey has achieved successful resolution of cases with dispositive motions, in mediation, and has tried several bench and jury trials.

Korey proudly resides in the City of St. Louis with her husband, their two rescue dogs and cat. She enjoys exploring parks, spending time in her garden, and baking treats to share with her friends and family. Passing along her knowledge to the next generation, Korey volunteers as a mock trial coach for her high school alma mater, Nerinx Hall High School.
