ABOUT RYAN

Ryan Aheimer is a Jacksonville-based commercial litigator representing businesses in Florida in civil litigation and business disputes. His practice focuses on liability claims, contract disputes, corporate governance matters, shareholder and partnership disputes, and risk mitigation. Ryan approaches each case with a focus on efficient resolution while remaining prepared to tenaciously advocate through trial when necessary.

He has experience handling disputes involving closely held corporations, assisting with small to mid-sized capital raises, and working on zoning and land use matters as they relate to business and property disputes. Ryan's legal background also includes advising businesses on operational issues while navigating complex litigation.

A practical problem solver, Ryan grounds his approach in responsiveness and a willingness to advocate for his clients' interests when circumstances require decisive action. He recognizes some matters are best resolved through negotiation while others require more direct advocacy through trial.

Ryan is a native of Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Outside of his practice, he enjoys fishing, spending time outdoors, attending church, and making time for family and friends.
