

Galloway Wins Defense Verdict for Local Municipality in Negligence Case

June 22, 2022

Last month, Galloway attorney Henry Weber obtained a defense verdict in a negligence case brought by a driver against a local municipality in the Gulf States concerning its road signage.

After driving over 60 feet off a dead-end road, Plaintiff sued the town, claiming there should have been a dead-end sign at the end of the road. Following a one-day bench trial, the Court returned a defense verdict, finding Plaintiff had not proven duty or causation. Plaintiff's final demand before trial was over $400,000.

Further, because of Plaintiff's improper, last-minute attempts to continue the trial, Mr. Weber was able to obtain an award of sanctions against the Plaintiff to recover the costs associated with the unjustified oppositions.
